A Community Survey

Conduct a survey!

Pose these questions to at least five people (parents, friends, other people you know). As you ask each question, place a check mark in the box that matches the person's answer. When you have finished, tally the responses.

How often do you see people showing respect in your community?

Don't Know	Almost Never	Sometimes	Almost Always
Answers will vary.

Questions:

1. Do you think this survey should have any extra questions?
 - a) If yes, what questions would you add?
 - b) If no, why would you leave the survey like it is?

Answers will vary but should explain:

- What additional information might be helpful to you if you were wanting to better understand your community's attitudes towards the concept of respect?
- Or, why do you not need to know anything more?

2. Look at the survey results on page 7 of Literacy in Action 5. These results were from a group of adults. Do you think the results would be different if a group of kids your age were surveyed? Why or why not?

Answers will vary but should address these questions:

- How do the attitudes of adults and children differ?
- Why do you think this is the case?
