

Try This 13 Possible Solutions

TT 13. The first graph is discrete and the second is continuous. The first graph is discrete because there is no meaning to values between the plotted points. The second graph is continuous because the temperature values can lie between the plotted points.