

Medieval Exemplar

- reduced in size and partially covered simply to demonstrate the format and detail of content

Peasant Life

Living Conditions

- Lived in huts
 - Small huts that they often shared with livestock
- Diet
 - Vegetables
 - Grains
 - Bread
- Clothing
 - Tunics
 - Woolen
 - Shirts
 - Blankets

Children and Education

Peasant pay was very rough and often included lots of wrestling between boys

Farming and Duties

- Farming by season
- Building roads
- Harvesting crops
- Cleaning forests

Noble Life

Levels

- Monarchy
- Lesser nobles
- Knights

Roles & Daily Life

- Children
- Lords
- Wives

Courts

- For important nobles only and
- Seigneurial lord includes
- seigneurial castle
- seigneurial household

City Life

Traders

- Merchants and merchants came to towns to sell their goods
- Local market would draw in lots of merchants and customers
- Lords that owned the town would often make money by taxing merchant that would come to sell their goods
- Towns also had shops that would increase the population

Building

- Building was very expensive in the middle ages
- Some money buildings were built in the middle ages
- Each town was larger and larger

Filth

- Towns in the medieval ages were filled with filth and dirt
- Toilets were in the streets and rivers
- Rats were everywhere
- This led to lots of disease sweeping through towns and cities

Causes of Middle Ages

The Medieval Ages began with the fall of the Roman Empire, that started the overall regression in culture and society that took place during this time. The fall of the Roman Empire led to a period of scientific and technological stagnation. The feudal system was a social and economic system that was based on the exchange of land for protection. The feudal system was a system of land ownership and control that was based on the exchange of land for protection. The feudal system was a system of land ownership and control that was based on the exchange of land for protection.

Plus Bibliography...